True Account of the Death of E. H. Poynter.

Ed. Bulletin: I have refrained from giving any detailed account of the loss of my partner the late Edwin H. Poynter until I was in possession of all the facts connected with it. Immediately upon receiving the telegram of Wright Bros. Vicksburg, Miss., notifying me of his loss I started for the scene of the disaster to fully satisfy myself of his fate and to recover his body if possible. Upon reaching Vicksburg I found Mr. H. C. Poynter brother of the deceased on the spot, upon the same sorrowful mission as myself. In connection with Mr. Dan Searles and Mr. Allen we at once chartered a small steam tug boat and they in company with H. C. Poynter went to the scene of the wreck and soon learned there had been seven dead bodies found and coroner's inquest held over them and all buried upon the banks of the river. Upon close investigation of all the facts Mr. Allen was the only one of the party who thought he had found traces of the remains of his lost friend and it turned out afterwards to be the body of his missing sister. Mr. H. C. Poynter returned and reported the result of his search and said, there was only one body that could have possibly been that of his brother and that was a large fleshy man identified on the coroner's inquest as being the second engineer, but that every fact connected with the description of the body was so different from his brother he could give no reasonable demand at that time to have it disinterred and examined. He also stated the additional fact, that on this body had been discovered a heavy gold ring bearing this inscription on the inside of it: "Be good, God bless thee" and the ring was taken off and in possession of the coroner. We both remembered his brother wore a heavy gold ring on one of his little fingers and were agreed that it was more than probable the body would prove to be his.

We noticed in the Vicksburg papers that no bodies would be removed to New Orleans till cold weather, and being fully satisfied that this body would not be molested for a few days, we determined to return home at once and place ourselves in possession of the facts connected with the ring, and all other facts that would in any way have any bearing on the case. Having reached Maysville on the following Sunday, I learned the whole truth about the ring and inscription in it and gathered together everything that could lead to the recognition of the body and despatched a messenger with letters containing information, and H. C. Poynter started Monday for Vicksburg. On arriving in that city, in company with Mr. Chas. Wright, he started in a large skiff with undertakers and metallic case for the spot where the body in question was buried. Proceeding the coroner, who still had the ring in possession, they speedily opened the grave and in a few moments the body was fully identified; to the satisfaction of all parties present, and the coroner turned the ring over to Mr. Poynter.

The body was then prepared, sealed up in the case and they took up their journey for home. On going down the river to meet the steamer Ed. Richardson for Vicksburg it was learned that Mr. Westmaker a brother of the engineer had come up from New Orleans and identified the body at Hard Times as being that of the missing second engineer and the wife of the lost man telegraphed from New Orleans, that the ring on her husband had no inscription in it so that the facts at once conspired to prove, beyond all human question, the body of Mr. Edwin H. Poynter had been found, and would soon find its last resting place near the scene of his and birth early boyhood and on a beautiful spot in the cemetery at Lexington, where soon will be laid the remains of his aged father, who is fast beating funeral marches to the tomb. The precise manner in which the deceased lost his life is only a matter of speculation. The condition of the body indicated he was evidently drowned as there were no marks of burning or wounds of any description to be discerned. From the garments on the body when found and barefooted, it is probable he awakened in time to rush from the flames that hemmed him in on all sides and jumped in the river on the up stream side of the boat, (as the state-room was on that side) and was sucked under the boat by the strong current before he ever came to the surface. In the perilous moments he had to reflect upon his chances of life, what tongue can tell the agonies of that heart. Thoughts of dear ones in Kentucky must have crowded thick and fast upon his mind as he plunged in the great depths beneath, only to grasp the embrace of death in the bosom of the great Father of Waters. Alas! how much sooner than we think is the great problem of life solved for us. Often when hopes of the future are brightest and happy anticipations of earthly bliss fill the soul with joy, the fell destroyer lays all things waste and shipwrecks the soul in the ocean of time. While the world will move on and our griefs be hushed in the busy hum of industry, the loss of such good and active men, as the late Edward H. Poynter, must leave a great void in the business of life that can never be filled. In an honorable and industrious career of business life, running through nearly a quarter of a century of labor and usefulness, no one has left a better name for all those noble and manly qualities that combine to make the true and successful man in this great battle of human life. In the prime of life and full health and hope, he is sadly stricken down.

"Such is the fate of our life's early promise, so passing the spring tide of joy we have seen. "They who have done their part well in this life and are taken away at its sunny side of hope and happiness lie down to pleasant dreams in a grander state than life here can ever bring us. Mr. Poynter was never happier or more hopeful of accomplishing the great object of his life's work, than when he started on his recent trip South. Truly, all this has vanished as a vapor and he is cut down. But, thanks be to God, there is something greater than the mere hopes of this life. He had so lived that he was prepared for the summons when it came, and having been once lifted from a dead level to a living perpendicular by the hand of the Master on earth, he is welcomed home by the Grand Master in that temple not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

The Coffee-House License Question.

Covington Commonwealth.

Referring to the recent decision of the Superior Court of Kentucky, to the effect that coffee-house license confers no right to vend spirituous liquors, the Breckinridge News says:

Now, however, that the decision has at last been rendered, and it will be well for the grand juries all over the state to take hold of the hundreds of tipping houses that, under the guise of coffee-house license, are selling all kinds of intoxicants.

The authorities in granting and applicants in accepting coffee-house licenses have acted in good faith, all parties—including state, county and city officers—assuming that under the law such license carried with it the right to vend spirituous liquors. There was no intent in any quarter to break or evade the law. Under the circumstances it seems to us there is no call for a hot pursuit of the unwitting offenders.

If a quart-box of strawberries holds a pint and a half, how many boxes will it take to make a peck, and how quick can a tramp get away with them?

If a farmer can mow six acres of grass in one day, how many liars will it take to mow thirty-eight acres of grass in three days?

A guest at the hotel pays the porter twenty-five cents to take his trunk up stairs; ten cents to a colored boy to bring him a pitcher of water; twenty-five cents further to the porter to get his trunk down stairs; fifty cents to the omnibus driver, and $3 to the landlord as the regular rate of the house. How much has he been swindled, and what is he going to do about it?

A coal dealer has a driver weighing 185 pounds, who is weighed with 750 loads of coal during the winter. What would have been the gain to the consumers had the driver only weighed 150 pounds?

If a policeman on night duty sleeps an hour and a half each night for thirteen years, how many years of such arduous labor will it take to reduce him to a walking skeleton?

In each county in the United States are seventy inhabitants who believe they would make good State Governors. Of this number only two per cent. ever get to be even a constable. What is the exact number of constables, and how many law-suits can a wide-awake officer provoke in a year.

A grocer has a horse which he asserts can trot a mile in 2:40. He puts him on the track under a watch and finds his best gait to be 3:28. What was the difference between the grocer's estimate and the watch, and why did he wallopp the poor horse all the way home?

A father at his death left $12,000 for the benefit of his only son, fourteen years, eight months and twelve days old, the money to be paid him when twenty-one years of age, with interest at six per cent. How much money did the lawyers leave for the boy?

A merchant who has a stock valued at $8,000 advertises that he will dispose of it at one-fourth off. How much does he make?

A citizen has a cow which gives six quarts of milk per day, while his sales foot up nine quarts. There is nothing for the student to find in this case. Simply turn on the water.

A grocer buys a chest of tea weighing eighty pounds. He sells twenty-seven pounds of it as "my unapproachable sixty cent tea," and the remainder as "our splendid forty cent Oolong." How much did he receive in all and how much did he have to give to the heathen that year to quiet his conscience?

A plumber who does sixteen cents' worth of repairing desires to charge for four pounds of solder in his bill. Please suggest how it can be done without injury to his system.—Detroit Free Press.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain its effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER,

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District. ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan., 20, 1880. DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ringbone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours, P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great. Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.

Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors, DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO. Enosburgh Falls, Vermont. j7d.
